

---

Subject: TRA - Luncheon and News

---

From: Jim Troy (troys@comcast.net)

---

To:

---

Date: Monday, August 8, 2016 7:33 PM

The Huntsville TRA Gazette

7 August 2016

Since 1805. not the club, Huntsville 20 May 12016

<http://www.tra-huntsville.org/>

<http://tra-spacepark.org/>

Retirees and Friends

Join us this Tuesday August 9, 11:30 at our now-regular 2d Tuesday meeting location OLIVE GARDEN. Tomorrow! Tomorrow!

Like Craft Beers?

A brand new Huntsville see site! the former late Stone Jr High is now the home of at least three microbrewery tasting bars. On Friday night all were packed, also at outdoor porch seating was ditto. No food for liver-savers while you each share a flight of tasters, but there's a food truck out front. These are attractive large new places, replacing their former lesser tasting bars. We went straight to Straight to Ale. Next door, Yellow Hammer, Lone Goose, and an office of HSV City Schools that door was locked no telling what they do. The children are no longer schooled there and they prefer other drugs. Microbrewery city is located along Clinton Avenue from Governor's Drive. Actual brewing occurs you can see and inspect, tank you. There are currently eight microbreweries in Huntsville.

Another major interesting micro brew seller of hundreds? of brands from HSV and all over the US exists in Five Points on Holmes and it has an in store tasting bar. Don't go thirsty!

Helpful Healthful Junk Hints for TRA Seniors

1. If you experience like me, when looking for something lost, it's always found in the very last place you think to look. This can easily be fixed. Next time after you find the item, just keep looking for it, then you can complain: why is it, when I lose something it's always in the next to last place I look? Or, if you have some fancy education, you can finally use that word, it's always in the penultimate place I look! I used it when describing my grade point average.

2. If when you enter your bank, you notice all the customers inside are lying down on the floor with their hands over their heads, as a happy senior health hint, it's always a good idea when this happens, to turn around, go back to your car, and use another branch.

3. Many seniors pay extra for the improved quality of HD (high definition) which has a wider picture and far more pixels. But then, I notice many just keep watching TV on the old familiar lower channel number which isn't HD, and all the people look fat (and fuzzy) because this is the wrong TV for that channel which is provided for old timey TVs in a bottle tube. If you are doing that (and you know who you are, well, some of you know who you are..) save money and stop paying for the HD box.

4. Do you always drive the speed limit? Congratulations! However for improved health, you who drive at that speed might try driving with your emergency flashers blinking, because everyone else is going 9 mph over the speed limit and you're liable to get rammed. Maybe by a Ram, truck.

5. Are you one who likes to continue playing golf when a wind storm with lightening suddenly joins you on the course? I know I do. Here's a helpful hint if a tornado approaches mid-game and you're out there like a lightening rod: Remember that north of the equator, tornados tend to twist clock-wise when looking up from the ground, blowing your flight to the left. So better aim your shots more right of the next hole. PS You should never stand under a tree in a lightening storm because your next shot might hit a limb. I'm well-grounded in these situations.

6. A great safety hint: This is true, you'll likely find in Alabama gas station shopping marts, chilled wines in the fridge, in a special smaller bottle designed to fit in a car or truck's cup holder! No need to fumble around with a big bottle that keeps rolling off the seat or one of those boxes of wine while driving let alone if you get a text message. Think the safer way and take the high road! Finally a some relief from $1.65 and up per gallon gas prices!

7. Finally, some of you write in, Bob, although we are told older women cannot have children, but we found that continuing to try to have more kids, although may seem hopeless, can have its rewards just a thought.

So that's it!

Please keep your suggestions coming in to share with our older members. For more information please send a self-addressed stamped envelope, and watch for a letter to arrive at your house the very next day.

Mr. Answer Person